Ministering Today

Kym Wade

In recent months we have looked at prayer, the fear of God, satisfaction in God and Love. I am continually aware of the consistency of the life we live. It can seem that we have the same problems week in and week out. That we make the same mistakes and live the same routine. For some of us our lives are always busy. If people ask how we are doing we'll say we're flat out with much to do. Others are always tired and will answer I'm tired or we'll just say I'm ok. We live in a broken world, and we experience the brokenness in our own lives. We are faced with challenges each day and life can wear us out.

Often a day may not seem too eventful or maybe it will seem the day has been totally wasted. We like to think that our life is counting for something, that we are achieving something great, or even small, through the life we live, and we strive on to achieve something or even anything!

Yet the sun comes and another day begins, and God says that His mercy is new every morning. Each day God smiles on us and calls us to grow and meet with Him, to walk through this life together with Him. To face the challenges of the day and to trust in Him. To enjoy the fresh breeze on our face and to wonder at the beauty of His creation. To put our hope in Him because He never changes and we have been created to be one with Him. To be satisfied in Him and see who we are through His eyes. From this place He then has work for us to do, His work that He has planned for us.

You are completely loved, Love Himself has chosen you to be His own. Trust Him He will walk this day out with you.

Love Kym
